This project is designed as a place of seclusion in the midst of the Rosslyn Business Improvement District. The bike path connects to the city sidewalks and provides a way to traverse the steep hill and access the waterfront. The existing George Washington Memorial Parkway is pushed into the Potomac to create a secluded water channel and clear land for development. The bath is set into the hillside and contains spa facilities for relaxing as well as a series of indoor pools for year-round relaxation. An outdoor Olympic-sized pool juts out into the river and provides a place of recreation.
This project is designed as a place of seclusion in the midst of the Rosslyn Business Improvement District. The bike path connects to the city sidewalks and provides a way to traverse the steep hill and access the waterfront. The existing George Washington Memorial Parkway is pushed into the Potomac to create a secluded water channel and clear land for development. The bath is set into the hillside and contains spa facilities for relaxing as well as a series of indoor pools for year-round relaxation. An outdoor Olympic-sized pool juts out into the river and provides a place of recreation.

\[// WADING POOL\]
the wading pool sits in the space underneath the bike ramp. The ramp has a glass railing wall on one side and a butter wall on the other, at the end is a waterfall where one can walk through to reveal a secluded grotto area.

\[// LEISURE POOL\]
the leisure pool is the main indoor pool of the complex and is accessed through the changing rooms and a through the spa amenity rooms. Past the pool is an area of smaller steam pools where one can unwind in a more secluded area.
This project is designed as a place of seclusion in the midst of the Rosslyn Business Improvement District. The bike path connects to the city sidewalk and provides a way to traverse the steep hill and access the waterfront. The existing George Washington Memorial Parkway is pushed into the Potomac to create a secluded water channel and clear land for development. The bath is set into the hillside and contains spa facilities for relaxing as well as a series of indoor pools for year-round relaxation. An outdoor Olympic-sized pool juts out into the river and provides a place of recreation.