

MILKWEED

Monarch butterflies are pollinators and are essential to production of much of our food supply. They are important contributors to a healthy and diverse ecosystem.

Milkweed is an important nectar source for monarchs, so planting it in your garden is a great way to boost the monarch population and health of our environment.

Created for the Arlington Art Truck & Arlington Arts. © Kate Samworth

arlington arts

